

Action conference

Good housing for all

Saturday 22.03. & Sunday 23.03.2025 in Berlin

Are you or were you affected by or threatened with homelessness?

Do you live in shared accommodation for refugees or homeless people and can't find a flat?

Are you involved in housing-related activism or work?

Do you volunteer to help people find accommodation?

Do you experience discrimination on the housing market?

Do you live in a flat and have difficulties with your landlord or the condition of your flat?

Are you doing research on the topic of housing?

Then you are cordially invited to the nationwide action conference

Good Housing for All!

Everyone should be able to live in a self-determined and dignified way. But how do we achieve this? How do the various groups to which we belong or for which we work live? What problems are there, what solutions can be found? How can we work together to improve our housing situation and that of others? What causes of poor housing conditions and homelessness can we change? What is our vision for good housing? And: How can we realise our demands together?

We invite everyone who is committed to good housing and would like to share their ideas: At the conference, we want to exchange experiences and find ways to work together in solidarity.

The conference will take place as an open space, which means that everyone can contribute and everyone will be heard.

We look forward to seeing you in Berlin in March!

The conference is organised by a group of people that deals with poor housing conditions, homelessness, shared accommodation for refugees and similar forms of forced communal living from different perspectives – some professionally, some activist, some with and without their own experiences and references. What unites us is the common goal of making housing more humane and affordable for everyone. (www.konferenz2025wohnen.de/wer)
